Tim: You are referenced in the last couple graphs of the story, not directly quoted. (I'm talking about VF.) It seems they were going to press JUST as HBGary broke. They got very little of that into the story.
me: what'd they say about me?
Tim: "According to Barrett Brown, an Anonymous strategist, they did this [hacked HBGary] because the firm's data was mostly bogus and could have gotten a lot of innocent people arrested, but their retribution--exposing internal data and over 70,000 private e-mails--was merciless."
Tim: That's the only point at which you're referenced.
me: that's good
Tim: It's funny. The story is packaged as a profile of Moot. But it's just as much about Housh.
Tim: I'm happy that they went to press before the import of the HBGary emails was beginning to be understood.
me: yeah lol
me: fuck VF
